PREFACE

A WORK with the above title will provoke inevitable comparison with its predecessor—the Alumni Oxonienses—and enquiry will reasonably be made as to how it stands, in respect of range and of copiousness of information, when compared with that well-known work. It is, we hope, no indication of a grudging spirit, if we begin by insisting on the fact that the difficulties which Mr Joseph Foster encountered, great as they were, are small in comparison with those which confronted us. It is a bare statement of fact to say that we had to undertake four or five years of work before reaching his starting point. As is well known, Colonel Lemuel Chester, the American genealogist, amongst his numerous and extensive collections, made or procured a complete transcript of the Oxford matriculations. Mr Foster bought this, after Col. Chester's death, and used it as the basis of his work. Now the Oxford matriculation records, unlike those of Cambridge, give, as a rule, the parentage and birth-place of the student. This list was, therefore, sufficient for his purpose. He was under no necessity of going behind, or beside, it, by consulting the College Admission Registers. As regards this part of his work he started with his materials at hand, fully prepared.

A very different experience awaited the Cambridge undertaking. In the first place the original records of matriculation had to be carefully examined from the commencement in 1544. They had never been transcribed, or even indexed, until Mr Stonebridge, the chief clerk at the Registry, undertook the work of compiling a preliminary list. This, of course, had to be verified by comparison with the originals. But more than this, owing to the scantiness of the Cambridge matriculation records, we found it occasionally necessary to appeal to the College registers for information. On doing this, we found, to our surprise, that the cases were very numerous in which a student duly entered at a College had nevertheless neglected the statutory duty of matriculation. This of course involved the obligation of working through all the sixteen College Admission Registers. It was well worth the trouble, not only for the number, but also for what may be called the quality, of the names thus added, as the omissions are largely found in the case of youths of social or political importance. Such men generally entered as fellow-commoners, and, as they did not contemplate proceeding to a degree, they often neglected to matriculate. The monumental instance in point, here, is that of Oliver Cromwell. He was duly admitted at Sidney, April 23, 1616, and resided for a year; but, as he neither matriculated nor graduated, the University, as such, entirely ignores his presence.

The number of names thus recovered is large. We reckoned that some 3000 in all were obtained from College sources, and added to the list of those academically matriculated, between 1544 and 1659 alone. The results of our labours, so far, were published, in 1913, in the Matriculations and Degrees, 1544-1659.

Unless a very different state of things existed at Oxford, which we have no reason to suppose, the number of Oxonians given by Foster must be seriously defective, since it rests almost entirely on the matriculation lists. We may therefore fairly claim that, if we have had a heavier task, we have, in return, obtained a much more complete list than that of the sister University.

The foregoing remarks apply only to that comparatively later part of University history which starts with the commencement of the matriculations in 1544. But, as the title indicates, the scope of our work is considerably more extensive than this. We have ventured to set before us a much more ambitious aim. This is, in fact, no less than that of obtaining a complete Roll-call, or list, of all the members of our University from the earliest date—whatever that date may be, in the thirteenth century. No such attempt has ever yet been made, we presume, on behalf of any ancient University; and no such attempt can, we feel sure, from the nature of the case, ever approximate to complete success. Foster's Alumni does not commence until 1500, and there are not many names in his work between that date and 1570; these being mostly taken from the Degree lists and Wood's Athenae. Our earliest recoverable students date from 1261.

UNIVERSITY RECORDS

Some account¹ must now be given of the various records from which our knowledge of the University career of the students is drawn, as these are but little understood outside.

I. The Matriculation Register. By a statute of 1544 every student was required to matriculate on his entrance to the University. This was on the occasion of his taking the oath of fidelity to his Alma Mater, a ceremony presumably of very ancient origin, if not coeval with the foundation of the University, though no earlier records of the ceremony are preserved. The only exception was in the case of those under 14, who were supposed not to comprehend the nature of their obligation. They are distinguished by the term impubes.

As this is the only official record of membership, it ought to be complete and trustworthy. Unfortunately it is neither the one nor the other. Very many names of students who undoubtedly came into residence are omitted altogether. Indeed one negligent Registry has emphasized his term of office (1590-1601) by failing to record any matriculations at all.

The formalities by which the matriculation was effected differ from those now in vogue. At the present day the freshmen all attend in person at the Senate House, and there sign their names, before the Vice-Chancellor. In olden times, when the students were mostly boys, their names were sent in to the Registry by the prelectors—College officers with some of the duties of a tutor—and these were copied into the official books by the Registry or his clerk. Fortunately most of these prelectors' lists have been preserved in their original form, so that we have been able to correct, and supplement deficiencies, by comparison with them. But the consequent labour has been heavy, as the prelectors scribbled their lists, often almost illegibly, on shabby little scraps of paper, and the blunders of the copying clerk are numerous, and sometimes almost incredible in their carelessness. Some examples of the consequent results will be found further on.

II. Degree Lists. It might naturally be supposed that as the conferring of degrees is the principal corporate act of a University, the records of these acts would be fairly complete from the first. Unfortunately this is very far from being the case. For nearly the first two centuries our history, in this respect, is a blank. We can find nothing but a casual reference, here and there—in a bishop's register, on a monument, in a deed, in the Calendar of Papal Letters, and so forth—that the man in question was a graduate.

¹ This account of the University Records is largely re-written from that given in the Introduction to the Matriculations and Degrees, 1544-1619.

1. Our continuous records commence with the Grace Books. These exist from 1454¹ to the present day. The first four volumes, labelled A, B, Γ, Δ, have been published in the Luard Memorial Series. They cover the period 1454–1588.

These books contain two distinct classes of records. There are the 'Proctors' accounts,' or returns of the fees paid and received for every kind of University work; and there are the official acts of the University in the way of conferring degrees and appointments, of public notices, addresses, and so forth. The two series naturally to some extent cover the same ground; and in the first volume (A) they are mingled together. B and Γ, respectively, contain the two series separately, and therefore much of their information is given twice over. Δ, and its successors, report only the corporate acts of the University. As in all such documents, there are many omissions; that is, in a number of cases where the University is recorded as having conferred a degree the proctors have no entry of any fee being paid, or of any 'caution' (i.e. pledge) for the performance of the necessary acts having been deposited. And conversely the proctors often record such payments and deposits when the University has failed to record a degree. For the purposes of this work, where brevity is necessary, we have made no distinction here. We have regarded either sort of entry as practical proof that the degree was conferred.

But, besides the Grace Books, we have two other sources of information as to the degrees conferred.

2. The Ordo Senioritatis. Cambridge used to boast, until a few years ago, of being one of the only two² Universities in the world which possessed a really ancient 'Honours Examination List.' This was the famous Mathematical 'Tripos.' In its later stage it was a very rigorous and impartial test of intellectual capacity. It must have acted as a powerful stimulus, at a time when exertion in general was slackening; and many a hard-headed youth from the north of England who came to College with little classical or literary culture, found, in the 'Tripos,' full scope for his native powers. A long list of Judges and other famous men might be compiled from amongst the 'high wranglers.'

But in its origin—the first extant list is in 1491—it is simply what its unvarying title implies. It was an 'order of seniority.' In a place where many men were in constant intercourse, and had to take part in processions, compete for appointments, and so forth, some recognized principle of seniority was desirable. What were the grounds on which the arrangement was originally made, it is now impossible to say. In many cases priority was certainly granted to social position: the fellow-commoner, or young man of family, often stands first. In other cases, as in that of Dr John Caius, in 1530, it looks as if intellectual pre-eminence was the determining cause. A short account of the gradual evolution of the ancient Ordo into the later Tripos is given in the introduction to Grace Book Δ. It is sufficient to say here that it supplies a second list which can be used to supplement the list derived from the graces for degrees.

3. The Supplicats. But there is a third list to be considered. Before a grace for a degree could be passed, the University required a testimonial from the College authorities that the candidate had kept the requisite number of terms, and was otherwise duly qualified. This, which was signed by the College prelector, took the form of a 'request' for the degree. Hence the name of 'supplicat.' As a rule there is no need to appeal to these supplicats (they are generally preserved from the latter part of the sixteenth century). But in years where the degrees are omitted—as happens occasionally—they become important. As a matter of precaution we have consulted them throughout.

² The other was the old Catholic University of Louvain destroyed, during the French Revolution, in 1794. The arrangement of the lists, in this case, seems to have been governed, from the first, in accordance with the intellectual merits of the candidates. It was really an order of merit. The reason for regarding the old Cambridge 'ordo senioritatis' as having been abolished in 1909 is that in that year the arrangement in individual order—the one constant characteristic all through—was abandoned, and the men grouped in classes.

COLLEGE RECORDS

So much for the principal University records. But, as already intimated, these give no personal information, beyond the very vague suggestion as to social status, afforded by the fact of matriculation as fellow-commoner, pensioner, or sizar. It is from the College Admission Registers, exclusively, that we can obtain such facts as parentage, birth-place, age, school, and so forth. A fairly full account is given in the Matriculations and Degrees, of the dates of commencement and fulness of information afforded by these registers. But enquiries are so often made on this subject, from those outside, that it will be well to give a brief summary. We have to thank the respective authorities for permission to publish the contents of these registers, including some already printed. In the case of the four Colleges which have published their registers with biographical details we have, of course, only summarized the information afforded, and acknowledged it under each entry.

- (1) Peterhouse. Commences in 1617, and records, from about 1635, the parentage and place of education, in many cases. It was published, with many biographical details, by Dr T. A. Walker, in 1912.
- (2) Clare. Commences 1631. Personal details seldom given before 1665.
- (3) Pembroke. Commences 1616. Fairly complete information given as to birth-place and parentage.
- (4) Gonville and Caius. Much the best of the series. Commences 1560, and contains, throughout, unusually full information. Published, in three volumes, 1897.
- (5) Trinity Hall. Very late and meagre. Commences 1692, and contains hardly any facts.
- (6) Corpus Christi. The actual register is late and meagre. But Robert Masters, fellow and historian of the college, collected, from various college records, the names of all the students whom he could discover from the foundation in 1352. These are printed, with some biographical notes, in his History of the College, published 1753: reprinted with additions by Dr Lamb, in 1831.
- (7) King's. As is well known, the foundation scholars and fellows, until 1865, were confined to those on the Eton foundation. Of these there is a complete list in Harwood's Alumni Etonenses, from 1441 to 1797. By the kindness of Mr R. A. Austen-Leigh, we have been able to add, in many cases, the age, parentage and birth-place, taken from the books at Eton. But besides the Etonians, there were always some outsiders; fellow-commoners, pensioners and sizars. These have been added, partly from the matriculations, and partly through the researches of Mr F. L. Clarke, of the bursar's office.
- (8) Queens'. The names and county origin, but nothing more, are given, generally speaking, from 1569.

- (9) St Catharine's. Commences about 1627; but is scarcely more than a list of names.
- (10) Jesus. Commences 1618. Gives at first only the name and county origin. Fuller information does not occur till much later.
- (11) Christ's. Commences 1622. Gives, in most cases, full particulars. It was published in two volumes by Dr Peile in 1913. He not only gives full biographical details of all the students whom he could identify, but also gives similar information about all known members of the College from the foundation in 1503.
- (12) St John's. Commences 1630. Gives full information as to the students. The publication of this register, with biographical details, was commenced by Professor J. E. B. Mayor, and continued by Mr R. F. Scott, the present master.
- (13) Magdalene. Commences 1646. Information fairly full.
- (14) Trinity. Commences 1635. Records at first only the name of the student. After 1682 the usual fuller particulars are mostly given. This has been printed in four volumes, but without any information beyond what is given in the register. It should be noticed that the first volume contains the names of students of King's Hall (one of the earlier foundations incorporated into Trinity, in 1546) from its commencement or rather from the first appearance of the 'King's Scholars' in 1317. This is far the earliest continuous list of scholars in existence. The accident of its preservation is due to the fact that the payments for their support were made out of the Exchequer, from the records of which they were extracted by Mr A. E. Stamp.
- (15) Emmanuel. The names of the students are recorded from the foundation of the College in 1584. But unfortunately no personal details are given beyond an occasional mention of the county origin.
- (16) Sidney Sussex. Commences, with the foundation, in 1598. At first little more than the name is recorded; but from 1619 onwards it becomes much fuller. Next to that of Caius, it is the best of the series.

These remarks apply to College records; but there is one serious omission which, in all likelihood, will never be made good. It is that of the ancient Hostels or Boarding houses. That these institutions, like every other corporation or common gathering place of men, must have possessed account books is fairly certain. And it is almost equally certain that these accounts must have contained the names of the students, and the sums due from them. Take, for example, Physwick Hostel, which was attached to Gonville Hall for nearly 200 years. It was far more populous than the Hall, and though it may not have bred professional theologians to rank with the bishops and other dignitaries who adorned the predominant partner, it probably ranked higher in social distinction. This we know indeed to have been generally the case with the Hostels, the Colleges being by comparison frequented by the poor and industrious students. Many a younger son of the knights and squires of Norfolk and Suffolk must have been enrolled for a year or two in Physwick Hostel, but their names can never be recovered. And this house was but one of many in Cambridge. They died out rather suddenly towards the middle of the sixteenth century, two or three of them just surviving long enough to appear in the earliest matriculations from 1544. But, so far as is known, no trace of any Admission Register, or other contemporary record, of any one of them has ever turned up in Cambridge or elsewhere.

EPISCOPAL AND OTHER RECORDS

So far we have been concerned with what may be called the continuous records of the University and the various Colleges. But these do not carry us back beyond, generally speaking, the middle of the fifteenth century. For the recovery of earlier names we are dependent upon various and casual sources of information. We can only mention a few of these.

1. Episcopal Registers. In the lists of ordinations which these generally contain, the names of early fellows have been found, definitely assigned to a college or identifiable by a degree. But the number of such is not large. The vast majority of ordinations in which any reference is made to the qualifications of the candidates refer to the monasteries. The candidates were either monks, or clerks selected by the monastery to act as curates of the churches which they held as rectors. Their 'title' is stated to be the monastery. The 'Canterbury and York Society' has commenced the publication of a number of the early Episcopal Registers; and as these are proceeded with much information may be expected that will be of interest for University history.

Not unnaturally the case of Ely is exceptional. From the earliest date the fellows of Peterhouse were appointed by the bishop, on the nomination of the College, and of course their names are duly recorded in the registers. In the case of Gonville Hall and Trinity Hall, similar information should have been obtainable at Norwich; since, by the statutes of William Bateman, annual returns were made, both to the bishop and to the dean and chapter, of every vacancy and appointment. These returns must have dated from 1350. But unfortunately the authorities in question seem to have kept a coeval waste-paper basket, for, after careful enquiry, it cannot be found that any trace of such records is now in existence.

Another class of information in the Episcopal Registers is interesting, and may prove valuable as more registers are printed. This consists in the occasional licences granted by the bishop to allow a clerk to leave his parish, for a specified period, for the purpose of study at the University. For instance, Thomas Aylward, Vicar of Havant, obtained such leave for 5 years, in 1405.

2. College records or account books. These are the most important sources of information for the recovery of very early names. But the work of searching them is laborious, and so far, we believe, only two or three of the muniment rooms have been systematically examined for this particular purpose. To indicate the kind of material that may be thus obtained, take the case of Gonville and Caius College. The Computus Books, or Bursars' accounts, commence in 1423, and continue, with occasional gaps, to the present day. They yield, directly or indirectly, the names of the fellows and indicate the commencement and termination of their tenure. Similarly with the scholars and others on the foundation. Another series of books, now perfect from 1581, gives the names, stipends, and length of residence, of all those who held scholarships. A third set, called Absence Books, records for many years the exact dates of arrival in College, and departure, of every one on the foundation. Thus it was found possible to furnish an enquirer with the exact amount of residence kept by William Harvey, the great physiologist, during his college career, viz. from 1593 to 1600.

But the most interesting lists contained in these particular account books consist in those of the Pensionarii, viz. of the students who, not being on the foundation, paid a 'pension' or rent for their rooms; which was duly entered in the bursar's books. These lists, at Gonville and Caius College, commence about 1491. The following is the entry for Lady Day, 1513.

 M^r Farwell debet xxx^s.
 Doctor Wright xx^s.
 M^r Harman iii^s iv^d.
 M^r Repps, monachus, debet pro suâ pensione i^s viii^d.
 Monachi Norwices debent xiiii^s.
 D^s Belham debet iii^s iv^d.
 D^s Mayner debet iii^s iv^d.
 D^s Brycotte debet iii^s.
 M^r Englysthe debet xxx^s.
 M^r Carman debet vi^s viii^d.
 M^r Bolen debet vi^s viii^d.
 M^r Knyvet debet vi^s viii^d.
 Monachi de Lewes debent x^s.
 D^s Atherole et D^s Crome debent pro 3 terminis x^s.
 M^r Aldrich debet v^s.

Some research, it need not be said, is required in order to identify these men, but what has been ascertained will be found under their names. Several of the monks who formed a large constituent element amongst these pensioners are mentioned in the Visitation of their monasteries by the Bishop, as well as by Dugdale, and elsewhere. It may be remarked that it is almost entirely due to this College entry that these students can be assigned to Gonville Hall, or, in the case of several, to the University in any way. When it is remembered that Gonville Hall was one of the smallest in Cambridge, and that probably most of the other colleges have similar material lying buried out of sight in their muniment rooms, it becomes plain that a vast amount of fresh information will some day come to light.

Another clue to missing names was found by Dr Peile amongst the records at Christ's College. This was a list of allowances to sick scholars, viz. to those who were unable to take their meals in the common Hall. As these lists dated from a time prior to the Matriculations, they supply a number of names not to be found elsewhere.

3. Miscellaneous public documents; Patent and Close Rolls, Papal Letters and so forth. These contain in the aggregate, a considerable mass of early information concerning appointments, pardons, indulgences, etc. Not a few of the names thus recorded refer to Cambridge graduates in days long before our earliest Grace Books.

Of such miscellaneous records, strange to say, one of the earliest is found in a very unsuspected quarter, viz. in the Pleas of the Forest. At a court held at Huntingdon, July 1, 1286, an enquiry was held as to infringement of the King's right to exclusive hunting in the 'warren of Cambridge,' i.e. in the extensive unenclosed lands around the town. A number of instances are cited of those who had hunted hares there when 'they were scholars at Cambridge.'

Actually the earliest known brief list of scholars—also one of offenders who obtained the King's pardon—is printed in Fuller's History, p. 29. The names are those of 'Southern'—i.e. south of the Trent—students who had taken part in a formidable riot against the Northerners, in 1261.

SOURCES OF PERSONAL HISTORY

So much for the sources from which our approximate list of Cambridge students has been obtained. We have purposely been rather explicit in description, because most of these records are but little known to historians in general. We must now say something about the various sources to which we have appealed for the purpose of identifying our students, that is, of determining their subsequent careers.

Ordinations. Till very recent times the clerical career has always been the dominant one at our Universities. It is very important therefore to procure a list of the ordinands at the various diocesan registries. There are several reasons for this. In the first place, though the County Histories generally give the names and dates of institution to the livings, the identification of the incumbent is necessarily, in most cases, mere guess-work, as the age and degree are seldom assigned. Again, a large number of the clergy never obtained a living. Many of them died young; others had to be content with curacies or domestic chaplaincies; some went abroad.

The help afforded by appeal to the Bishops'¹ ordinations is therefore obvious. For one thing, whereas an incumbent may be of any age from 23 upwards, the ordinand is almost invariably within a year or two of the canonical age. And, better still, from a date varying in the different dioceses, the college and degree of every applicant are assigned, and his signature recorded in the Subscription Books. In some cases, for instance in the early post-Reformation ordinations at London, the parentage and birth-place of the candidate are specified.

It is much to be wished that we could have secured lists of ordinations of Cambridge men from every diocese. This has indeed been practically accomplished in the case of two Colleges, Christ's and Caius, but the labour and cost of such an undertaking for the whole University have proved quite insuperable. It must be remembered that besides the remuneration of the transcriber, fees are sometimes demanded which are practically prohibitive. Still we have succeeded—largely owing to the kind help of several beneficent local antiquaries, whose names are gratefully recorded later on—in securing the majority of the available ordinations of all the dioceses which principally concern our Cambridge students; viz. those of Ely, Lincoln, London, Norwich and Peterborough; with a considerable number from Carlisle, Durham, York and Rochester. The Western and Southern dioceses were, in early days, mainly Oxonian. On the whole, we reckon that these volumes contain, at a rough estimate, over 10,000 ordinations, very few of which have yet appeared in print, except in the recent biographical histories of Caius, Christ's and St John's.

Even after our own lists commence many new names are to be found in the Bishops' Registers. That is, the ordinands did not graduate or matriculate, nor do their names occur in the extant College registers. But the Bishop and his chaplains can hardly have been deceived on such a subject, so we have always included them. Similar remarks apply to the claim of an unsupported degree. Not unfrequently a candidate for orders is described as B.A. or M.A. when no such degree is recorded. There is no reason to suspect fraud here. The degree may have been conferred, and the Registry have neglected to enter it in his books. But, more frequently what was meant is probably this: that the man had satisfied the requirements as to standing, etc., and had received the testamur from his College, but that owing to illness or absence had not been actually admitted to a degree by the University.

As regards those ordained without a degree, it may be remarked that the current phrase, still in use, of 'literate' as applied to them is of old standing. An equivalent phrase, in the Lincoln diocese, in Elizabethan times, was 'bred in the schools.' During the latter half of the sixteenth century many were thus ordained after a year or two of study at the University.

Institutions to Livings. How are we to procure a list of Incumbents? The only really complete way of doing this is to appeal to the original authority, that is, to the Episcopal registers of the various dioceses. But this is a laborious process, and in some cases, owing to the demand for fees, an expensive¹ one. Fortunately, however, in the case of the best County Histories, it has already been done for us. This method possesses several great advantages. In the first place, the Bishops' registers generally date from a very early period, far back in the fourteenth or even thirteenth century. Then, again, they commonly assign the University degree, if any, and state the cause of vacancy, whether by death, resignation, or deprivation, of the previous incumbent.

But there is an alternative plan, and to those who have to work under commercial conditions, the only alternative plan. This is, to appeal to the First Fruit, or Institution Books, at the Public Record Office. These date from 1535, when Henry VIII appropriated the 'first-fruits' paid to the Pope, on institution to a living. The main defect of these lists is their incompleteness. That some livings, of small value, were excused first-fruits is well known, but it does not seem to be realized what a large number, from one cause or another, escaped this tax.

It was to these lists that Mr Foster appealed. He had a complete transcript made, arranged the names alphabetically, and then compared his results with the Oxford lists. His plan was, on the whole, very satisfactory, as those who have consulted his work will admit, and it was certainly economical. It was to this catalogue, compiled by Mr Foster, that we had fully expected to have access—it is still in private hands—but in this we have been disappointed. We have therefore had to take the more laborious course of consulting the various County Histories, and, where these failed, consulting the First-Fruit books at the Record Office, appealing to the kind help of local antiquaries, consulting parish and other topographical magazines, etc.

The result on the whole is—as in the case of our total University membership list—that though we have had to undergo a very great and unexpected amount of labour, yet we have been rewarded by a correspondingly increased amount of valuable results. We may fairly claim that—at any rate so far as concerns the Eastern and Northern parts of England, which were the principal recruiting grounds for Cambridge—our identifications of University incumbents is decidedly more complete than are those of the Alumni Oxonienses.

If it be asked what proof we have of the truth of our identifications, the answer must be frankly given—that it is to some extent guess-work. Of course practical certainty can be attained in many cases: the name may be a very peculiar one; the degree may be decisive; the birth-place, parentage, or patronage may give a useful clue. Above all, we have the assistance, in our case, of many thousands of recorded ordinations; and we have the help (which Foster had not) of being able to compare our lists with those of the sister University. The reader will notice that we have employed a graduated scale to indicate the degree of uncertainty in the doubtful cases—'one of these names,' 'perhaps,' 'probably.' To many enquirers any indications such as these will be of service.

It may be pointed out here that there is a method available in the doubtful cases for those who are willing to take the trouble of employing it. In every diocese the Bishop holds a Visitation from time to time, at which all his clergy are required to attend and exhibit their letters of orders. The results are, or should be, recorded in the Bishop's Register. Take this example. We find that one John Ward was appointed rector of Billockby, Norfolk, in 1673. So far as the name goes he might be anyone of a dozen at Cambridge or Oxford; or he might not have been at either University. It would hardly be worth while to mention him under the vague description, 'one of these names.' But the Visitation of 1677 states that he was ordained priest at Norwich, Jan. 5, 1672-3; the Bishop's Register states that this ordinand was B.A. of Jesus College; and the Jesus books give us his parentage and birth-place. Of course this elaborate enquiry is not always available: in many cases the requisite data are missing. But it is well to know that our ecclesiastical records—where they are extant—contain a clue to the puzzle. Even that elusive being, John Smith, can thus be securely gripped, if only the apparatus is in working order.

Inns of Court. Until recent years, the clerical career accounts for much the larger proportion of our students, especially of those who graduated. Indeed it would hardly be too much to say that, during the seventeenth century, the odds are almost ten to one that a man who had proceeded to the M.A. degree either had taken, or eventually did take, holy orders. But many of the sons of the country gentry of course entertained no such prospect. Their typical career—following the precedent of Mr Justice Shallow and his friends—was to reside for a year or two at the University, and then to enter at one of the Inns of Court. Sometimes they became barristers and followed the legal profession, but, more often, their only object was to secure some qualification for the post of justice of the peace in their own county. We have had accordingly to search the admissions at the four London Inns. Those of Gray's Inn and Lincoln's Inn offer no difficulty, as they have been published; and there are, for the former, Mr Joseph Foster's commencement of an annotated list in his Collectanea, and those of the Inner Temple have been published down to 1660; for the later admissions we have to thank the great kindness of the Rev. T. C. Dale, of Clapham, who has searched the books for all the entries which concern Cambridge. For the Middle Temple, the librarian, Mr C. A. Bedwell, has kindly come to our help. He has examined the sheets as they were printed, corrected them, and supplied the names of those students whom we had not secured.

Of course these are only admissions. It is much to be wished that there were some accessible list of those who were eventually called to the Bar, and therefore adopted the Law as a profession, so that the list of these might be complete.

Probate Registries. In the volumes of the Record Society a large number of Calendars of early wills have been printed. These, together with those published by various local societies have been frequently consulted, and much information obtained. In particular, we must mention the vast assemblage in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, which commence in 1388. Thanks to the indefatigable kindness of Mr J. Challenor Smith, late of Somerset House, we have been favoured with many references to, and extracts from, the wills in this and other collections.

Naturally, for our purpose, one of the most useful of these Calendars is that of the Cambridge Vice-Chancellor's Court—summarily indicated in these volumes as 'V.C.C.' This court had the supervision of the wills, not only of actual members of the University, but also of the various townsmen—college-servants, tradesmen, etc.—who were affiliated to the University. The earliest of the series now existent is dated 1501; the latest 1765. They naturally contain much useful information, and they occasionally supply names as to which we have no other record. Unfortunately, at the time of the reform of the Probate Registries in 1858, these wills were removed from their ancient and natural repository in the University Registry, and transferred, together with those of Ely, to Peterborough. Many of the more important of these wills were transcribed or summarized by Thomas Baker, the antiquary, and are to be found amongst his MSS. at the British Museum or the Cambridge University Library. It may be remarked that this court is an ancient one. For instance the will of John Wulpit, preserved in the treasury of Queens' College, is described as proved in the Chancellor's Court, 1441.

Specification of Schools. It is a valuable feature in several of the Cambridge College admission registers that the school at which the student was educated is mentioned, and in many cases the name of the master is recorded. In the case of the Caius register—much the earliest and best of those in existence—the inclusion of this information is due to the express enactment of John Caius himself. The result is that from 1560 onwards we have a mass of scholastic information which it is safe to say can be acquired from no other source in England. In the third volume of the Caius Biographical History will be found a list of about 1900 schoolmasters, drawn from the admissions to that College alone down to the year 1800. The value of this information is obvious, even in the case of the great historic schools of England, since few, if any, of these have a complete register of their early scholars. In the case of the second-rate schools such knowledge becomes still more important, as their history, in many cases, has never been written; sometimes the date of their foundation, and the names of most of their masters are unknown.

Perhaps the most interesting fact which emerges from consideration of these data is the proof of the existence, three or more centuries ago, of many scores of schools scattered in villages and small towns all over England. We cannot, of course, assert that all these were 'schools' in a technical sense; that is, with a special building, some endowment, and a succession of masters. Some may have been the private venture of an individual, very likely the parson of the parish. But the fact remains that every boy, even in the remotest part of the country, could find a place of education in his own neighbourhood competent at any rate to fit him to enter College. In those days some fair knowledge of Latin was imperative. Whatever they learnt at their village seminary they must have come up prepared to hold their own, or at least to compete, with the boy from Bury St Edmunds or Norwich, from St Paul's or Merchant Taylors'.

It would be an interesting enquiry for the local or parish historian to ascertain what has become of these various schools. Some, of course, through the luck of an adequate endowment, have risen to great things. Several of our now flourishing 'public schools,' do not appear—so far as University evidence affords a clue—to have differed materially, two or three centuries ago, from a number of their now extinct or insignificant rivals. A small fixed or dwindling endowment has probably been the cause of decay of these latter. It is not at all unlikely that the change of popular sentiment which now so generally insists that the sons of the well-to-do shall be educated apart from those of the poor, in some big boarding school in the country, has cooperated here. It takes a large area to supply an adequate number of the former class. Which of the competing schools should be starved out of existence, as feeders of the University, in consequence, would depend upon endowment or skilful head-mastership.

Change of Style. We have adopted in these volumes, of Part I which ends with the year 1751, what is the only correct and unambiguous course in dealing with events which occurred between Jan. 1 and March 24, inclusive, viz. that of assigning the double date, e.g. Jan. 30, 1648-9. This means that the day in question would, by our reckoning, be assigned to 1649, but at the time was assigned to 1648.

The principal difficulty one has to face is this. In taking a date, from an ordinary history of the popular kind, we often do not know what the author means. Has he simply copied some contemporary record—parish register, tombstone, etc.—or has he tacitly substituted the modern reckoning? Wherever we can determine which he has done we have substituted the double date in order to avoid confusion. Sometimes, however, this is not possible, and then we have to leave the exact date ambiguous. Thus, when any one is said, in these volumes, to have died 'Feb. 15, 1615,' it is meant that we simply do not know whether this should stand 1614-5, or 1615-6. A number of these puzzles have been left us, the Dictionary of National Biography itself being a not-infrequent offender.

It is especially necessary to call attention to this question of ambiguity of date owing to the fact that the B.A. degree was almost always taken in January. For instance, Richard Bentley graduated B.A. in Jan. 1679-80, and M.A. in 1683. The printed Graduati simply gives these dates as 1679 and 1683; incidentally making it appear that four years intervened between B.A. and M.A. instead of three and four or five months. But the reader must not infer from this that in using the Graduati he has only to add on a year to make the date correct according to modern reckoning. Unfortunately this simple rule does not hold good. Not all the B.A. degrees were taken in January, but only about nine-tenths of them. The remaining tenth, technically called Ad Baptistam degrees, were taken after March 25, when there is no difference between the old and the new style. Borlase, in the Graduati (1659-1823), makes no distinction here, but adheres to the old style throughout.

Signatures. These are not unfrequently enquired after, for purposes of identification, especially by American genealogists. The answer is rather disappointing.

1. The only early general lists of signatures are to be found in the Subscription Books for degrees, where the candidates were required to sign their acceptance of the Royal Supremacy, and of the formularies of the Anglican Church. These commence in 1618; are interrupted between 1642 and 1660; and continue thence till 1870, when the tests on ordinary graduation were abolished. Generally speaking, therefore, the signature of any graduate between those dates will be found. This includes the incorporations and the mandate, or 'honorary' degrees.

2. Another series, commencing 1662, includes all fellows of Colleges. This was required by the Act of Uniformity of that year. It continued till 1870.

3. At the present time every student has to sign his name at Matriculation. This is not an ancient practice, as it only commences in 1724. In old times the signing was done by the prelector, who sent in the names of candidates of his own College to the Registry. But this is little loss, for the signature of a boy of 14, or even younger, would be of very little use for subsequent identification.

4. The above refers to University sources. As regards the various Colleges no brief account can be given beyond saying that no signatures are to be found of ordinary students, and very few of the scholars; but that those of most of the fellows can generally be found by searching the gesta of College meetings, and the various official account books.

Relationship. It will be noticed that we have taken considerable trouble to assign the relationship between the various students. This will save the searcher much labour in the case of the commoner names, where the related members may be far separated in our lists. Academic education in England has always been to a considerable extent influenced by family sympathy and tradition, and so we find generation after generation resorting to the same University and often to the same College; the occasional breaches of continuity being sometimes due to the local accident of some school or county providing a scholarship at some particular College.

Whilst on this subject the compilers cannot forbear remarking that they believe their case to be unique so far as England is concerned, as they represent respectively the eighth and ninth generations, from father to son, who have graduated:—the first three at Oxford, the last six at Cambridge. It may be added that it was the accident of a local endowment—a scholarship at Blundell's School, Tiverton, Devon, for Sidney Sussex College—that diverted the stream from Oxford to Cambridge. Another very remarkable case is to be found at Harvard College, U.S.A. Two generations of Saltonstalls graduated at Emmanuel, and no less than seven of their successors, from father to son, have followed at the American University.

Proper Names. Owing to the extraordinary variety in the spelling of the names, we have had to adopt, for Part I, i.e. the earlier part, the following plan. As regards surnames the only satisfactory method is to group together those which may reasonably be called the same, but to preserve in each case the spelling actually given on the first occasion, or, in the case of famous men, the spelling by which they are best known; and to make free use of cross-references. The lexicographical purist who insists on names being spelt 'as they are given,' and indexed accordingly, does not understand his work; or at any rate does not appreciate how much labour he might save the reader. When the variations of a name are dispersed in an index the searcher has to consult page after page in order to make sure that he has them all, and he can never be sure that the man he wants is not lurking under an alias with another initial letter. Take the case of Dr Caius. In contemporary records he appears under ten, or more, forms. The earliest of these are Kees and Keys, as, presumably, his father spelt the name. But of course we have entered him as Caius. We have added plentiful cross-references which should assist in directing searchers to the right place in the case of even the most variantly spelled names.

As to Christian names the case seems different. Here there is what may be called a right and a wrong way, and we have adopted the ordinary spelling. But it must be confessed that the common practice of Latinizing names sometimes gives trouble. What about 'Jacobus,' for instance? Is he James or Jacob? It is impossible to say, unless we can track him into common life, and find him clothed in ordinary English.

Place Names. Place names also have caused vexation, especially those assigned as the birth-place of a student. We have done our best to determine them from gazetteers and local histories, but they are sometimes probably mere hamlets or manor houses. When not identifiable we have left them as given, draping them with inverted commas. In olden times dialectic differences must have aggravated the difficulties of the scribe; the southern prelector or registry having to interpret the utterances of his pupils, say, from Yorkshire or Cumberland. As to recognized parishes two points may be noticed. In not a few cases the modern rendering differs appreciably from the old one. In that case we have given it as it occurs in Crockford or the Clergy List. Where the county boundary, in reference to a parish, has been changed, as occurs from time to time, we have adopted the present assignment.

Emigrants to New England. Every one knows how keen is the interest, felt amongst Americans, in family history, especially as regards their forefathers in the old country. But the results of their enquiries are often difficult to secure, being scattered amongst many local antiquarian and genealogical journals, as well as in many separately published family histories. We are therefore peculiarly fortunate in having enjoyed the advice and assistance of Mr J. Gardner Bartlett, of Boston, Mass. He has supplied us with biographical accounts of upwards of a hundred Cambridge students who emigrated to New England prior to 1650. The information he has supplied about many of these will be entirely new to most readers.

Foreign Chaplains and Ministers. Our information about these is mostly derived from the following sources:

Digest of the Records of the S.P.G., 1893.

Hyde, H. B. Parochial Annals of Bengal, 1901.

Penny, Frank. The Church in Madras, 1904.

Monks and Friars. Members of the religious orders were probably never so frequent at Cambridge as at Oxford. Still a good many of their names occur, as students or graduates, and we have endeavoured wherever possible, to track them. The best lists of those in actual residence at Cambridge are found in some of the early Caius College account books already referred to. Their careers have been studied in Dugdale, and in the lists of those who signed the surrenders in 1539.

Seminary priests and Jesuits. For a few years about the middle of Queen Elizabeth's reign, during the so-called Counter-Reformation, many students who were Roman Catholics, or who became so, were still to be found in Cambridge. The majority of these were laymen, largely recruited from Yorkshire families. Their names have been traced in various recusant rolls. Not a few became seminary priests and Jesuits, and contributed a relatively large proportion of martyrs. The careers of these have been compiled by aid of Mr H. Foley's Records of the English Province, and also from the Douay Diary.

Foreign Universities. There was much exchange in early days between British and foreign Universities. But so far we have only succeeded in finding three records to serve our purpose, viz. the list of British students entered respectively¹ at Leyden, Geneva and at Padua. Unfortunately the Dutch attempts at rendering English names make identification frequently difficult, whilst the Italian attempts render it often impossible. The Douay Diary, being presumably drawn up, or supervised, by Englishmen, leaves nothing to be desired in this way.

Members of Parliament. We have attempted to assign every M.P. who belonged to the University at any time, but the identification has sometimes been difficult and can only be considered probable. Our authority is the official Blue Book in three volumes, published in 1878.

On the whole—with one very serious exception—the Cambridge records have been fairly well kept. The returns of the prelectors from the various Colleges, and the accuracy and completeness with which the graces of the Senate are recorded seem quite up to the customary standard of old corporations. Where the failure comes in is with the transcription of the results into the official books by some bygone Registraries and their clerks. They have managed to accumulate a mass of blunders which must be almost without parallel in official documents. Considerable license in the spelling of proper names is, of course, always to be looked for, but what we are speaking of goes far beyond anything that can be called license. "In many hundreds of cases, probably in some thousands, we have to reckon with downright blunders. In one short list alone—that of the M.A. degrees for 1628—there are some fifteen or more blunders such as the following: Dickingson for Pilkington, Depys for Pepys, Wiske for Withe, Ledrich for Redrich. We have to identify Saundersburie and Sandsome, Battiston and Saltiston, Vewtibhat and Lewthwait, Queadman and Redman; and feel grateful when the initial letter is the same. George Ring is called Bing in the grace, and King in the ordo. Peter Dillander appears thus in the matriculation book; is reduced to Dillan at his degree; and sinks to Dill in the ordo. Hamart Laxson is really Hamond Claxton. One, whose prelector rightly calls Prick, matriculates as Frick, takes his B.A. as Parke and his M.A. as Prickes. A phantom student, entered as 'Pauper Schott,' is resolvable into the Registry's reading of Pauper Schol., the prelector's heading of his list of sizars. And so on. We have done what we can to clear up the mess, but certainty of identification is out of the question in many cases. What was the 'real name' of some of these students no man will ever know. They are dead, and their secret has died with them." (Extract from Preface to Matriculations and Degrees.)

The pleasing duty remains of thanking some of the many friends—they are too numerous for it to be possible to mention all—who have kindly helped us in our undertaking. The following have worked through every proof sheet and made many notes on them.

- The Rev. A. B. Beaven, Leamington. His uncanny accuracy, even when the ordinary authorities are against him, has saved us from many errors.
- Mr T. P. Dorman, of Northampton, an expert in the history and genealogy of his county, has supplied much local information.
- Mr H. Guy Harrison, of Sevenoaks, has not only supervised our Kentish materials, but added many facts drawn from the records of neighbouring counties.
- Mr F. S. Hockaday, of Lydney, Gloucestershire, has placed at our service his collections from the Bristol Diocesan Registry, and the institutions for Gloucestershire and Somerset.
- The Rev. H. I. Longden, rector of Heyford, has collaborated with Mr Dorman in respect of Northamptonshire. To him are due many additions to our list of ordinations at Peterborough, as well as dates of Institution.
- Col. J. Parker, C.B., Browsholme Park, Clitheroe, has cleared up a quantity of questions concerning the numerous entries of Carr and Parker, and solved several Lancashire puzzles.
- Mr M. H. Peacock, of Oxford, has been a mine of information for Yorkshire. His long acquaintance with that county, as headmaster of Wakefield, has supplied a mass of local information, as to place-names, schoolmasters, local families and so forth.
- Mr V. B. Redstone, of Woodbridge. Well known as an authority on Suffolk. The absence of any general history of that county has made his assistance especially valuable.
- Mr G. B. Routledge, of Carlisle, has especially supervised the northern names, and supplied us with Carlisle ordinations, etc.
- Mr J. Challenor Smith, late of the Probate Registry, Somerset House—where every literary searcher of former days will remember him with gratitude—has been untiring in his labour. He has placed freely at our service his stores of information concerning the London diocese, and supplied many extracts from, and references to, the innumerable wills in London and elsewhere.
- Mr H. M. Wood, of Newcastle-on-Tyne. To him we are especially obliged for family and ecclesiastical information concerning the counties of Northumberland and Durham, largely drawn from parish registers and other sources not easily accessible.

For the Inns of Court, we are indebted to the kind help of Mr C. A. Bedwell, librarian of the Middle Temple, who has generously supplied what would otherwise have been a serious omission; as the admissions of that Inn have not yet been published. The Rev. T. C. Dale, of Clapham, has (in addition to the labour of transcribing hundreds of ordinations at York) performed the same service for the Inner Temple, the records of which had only been published down to 1660.

We have also received special assistance from the following residents:

Peterhouse. Dr T. A. Walker has been consulted for information as to early records of the College previous to 1616; when the Admission Register commences.

Pembroke. The Master, and Mr Minns.

Clare. Mr Wardale has supplied lists of early scholars and fellows previous to the date of introduction of matriculation.

Corpus Christi. Dr Stokes has been a constant adviser and critic. His wide knowledge of the early history of the University, exemplified by his papers on the University Bedells and Chaplains, and the Hostels, is familiar to every member of our Antiquarian Society.

Trinity Hall. 'Warren's Book': this collection, drawn up in the eighteenth century, by Dr William Warren, fellow of the Hall, is our principal source of information as to the scholars, fellows, benefactors, etc. It was edited by the late Sir A. W. W. Dale in 1911.

King's. Thomas Harwood's Alumni Etonenses gives lists of those elected from Eton between 1443 and 1797. We have also to thank Mr R. A. Austen-Leigh for much unprinted information as to the parentage and birth-place of these scholars, taken from the records at Eton. Mr F. L. Clarke, of the College office, has extracted lists of fellow-commoners, pensioners and sizars.

St Catharine's. The late Mr Spratt, tutor of the College, took the trouble to extract for us the admissions from the registers after 1659.

Magdalene. The late Master, Dr S. A. Donaldson, performed the same service at Magdalene.

Jesus. The Master, Mr A. Gray, has gone carefully through the entries which concern his College. He has supplied much information about the careers of the students, and has thereby saved us the labour of consulting the MS. historical notes of Joscelyn and Sherman.

Queens'. The Rev. W. G. Searle, late fellow, made extensive collections from the ancient records of the College. Some of these were incorporated into his History, but the complete list of admissions of students, from about 1560, and the roll of known fellows from the foundation of the College, exist only in MS. These we have been freely allowed to draw upon. Questions have also been readily answered by the President, and Mr Plaistowe, the librarian.

Christ's. The Biographical Register, compiled by the late Dr Peile, Master of the College, has been our principal authority. It is based upon a fairly exhaustive investigation of all the available records in the College muniment room.

St John's. The late Professor J. E. B. Mayor accumulated, for many years, materials for a complete history of the College and all its members. The main outcome of this is (1) his edition of the History of St John's, by Thomas Baker, the antiquary; (2) The Admission Register, commencing in 1631, continued by Mr R. F. Scott, the present Master—both these being enriched with many notes; and (3) a series of interleaved copies of the Cambridge Graduati, in which Professor Mayor had crowded a vast number of personal references.

Trinity. As stated (on p. ix) our materials are drawn, by permission, from the Admission Register, as supplementing the matriculation lists. Whenever the early account books in the muniment room are scrutinized there is little doubt that many new names will be discovered. The late Mr Aldis Wright made a commencement in this direction and supplied some valuable information.

Emmanuel. When the Matriculations and Degrees was being compiled, reliance was placed on the list of admissions drawn up by Dr Richardson, a former Master of the College. Owing to his peculiar handwriting, a certain number of misreadings was the result. Readers will therefore be particularly grateful to Mr J. B. Peace, fellow of the College and printer to the University, for the time and care he has devoted to verifying every entry from the original, and adding a number of personal notes.

Sidney. The Master, Mr Weekes, has kindly answered a number of questions which required fresh appeal to the records.

For Trinity College, Dublin, in particular, and for Irish families in general, we have had the kind and ready help of the late Mr G. D. Burtchaell, Athlone Pursuivant and Mr T. U. Sadleir, also of the Irish Office of Arms, joint editors of the Alumni Dublinenses. The Rev. H. B. Swanzy, rector of Newry, Co. Down, has also furnished us with information concerning former Irish students.

The following have given miscellaneous information—always valuable and often abundant—in many cases concerning family connexions:

Mr S. D. Addy, Mr A. D. Adrian, Mr C. P. Allix, Mr C. J. B. Angier, Mr E. P. Archer, Mr H. R. P. Baker, Mr H. C. Barnard, Mr J. D. Betham, Mr G. O. Bellewes, Mr R. J. Beevor, Mr T. M. Blagg, Mr J. A. Bradney, Mr D. S. Boutflower, the Rev. Canon Burton, Mr J. Charrington, Mr A. C. Chibnall, Mr H. G. Chick, Col. W. H. Chippindall, Sir A. T. Craig, the Rev. W. G. Cruft, the Rev. H. L. L. Denny, Miss Edleston, Miss E. H. Elmes, Mr R. T. Fynmore, the Rev. E. I. Fripp, the Hon. V. Gibbs, Mr V. Gregory, Mr W. P. Greenlaw, Mr L. Griffith, Mr A. B. Grimaldi, Mr R. T. Gunther, Mr Ch. Gwyn, Mr W. M. Harris, Mr W. C. Harrison, Mr R. Heffer, the Rev. E. E. Hill, the Rev. H. B. Hyde, Capt. W. Jaggard, Mr Fred. Johnson, Mr E. A. Jones, Mr W. Landor, Mr P. Mariette, Mr R. B. Morris, Mr A. A. Mumford, the Rev. W. M. Noble, Dr W. Palmer, Mr G. C. Peachy, the Rev. F. Penny, Mr C. Petteward, Col. H. R. Phipps, Mr J. Ravenshaw, Mr W. C. Renshaw, Mr A. L. Reade, Miss M. A. Rudd, Mr F. W. Sanderson, Mr B. P. Scattergood, Major R. H. R. Smythies, Mr W. G. Stanard, the Rev. A. W. Stote, Col. W. H. Turton, Mr J. R. Twisden, Mr J. B. Wainewright, Miss M. Walduck, Mr W. Wasteneys, Mr J. C. Whitebrook, Mr F. A. Wodsworth.

It may be of interest to future generations to know how this work fared during the period covered by the great war. All of those of military age engaged on its preparation in or soon after 1914, served in some capacity, as the following list will show. Two were killed.

- ✱P. J. Egan, Private, Sherwood Foresters.
- C. J. Harbridge, Y.M.C.A., Egypt and Palestine.
- The Rev. F. Ranner, Chaplain to the Forces.
- R. South, Interpreter, Royal Engineers.
- J. A. Venn, Lieut., Northants. Regiment.
- ✱J. C. White, 2nd Lieut., Beds. Regiment.

In addition, our lady assistant, Miss Bloxham, was awarded the order of 'La Reine Elizabeth' for services rendered to Belgian refugees.

The four volumes of this Part contain in all some 76,000 names. The materials exist in manuscript for Part II which is planned to extend from 1752 to 1900, with a further 60,000 names. Whether it will be possible to proceed with its completion and publication in the immediate future depends upon the support given to Part I.
